Oh wow, here it is, the 30-page end-of-the-year issue of the Dodo. It's all here, man: Joe Strack Comix, Biff & Lumpoe, Dodo Quorum, Johnny Parka - the works. And since this is also my last issue as editor, I'd like to take the opportunity to say, "Hey, it's been great" (imagine me saying this), and, "Thanks for all the support you've given us" (imagine me saying this, too, in a very sincere manner, because I really mean it.)

Good news: Pete Williams, '84, CS-02, is next year's Dodo editor. Pete is the mind behind Dodo Quorum, the Ye Olde Comm Shoppe catalogues, and this month's excellent 'Caffeinaholics Anonymous' page, among others. He's a superb writer, and I'm really proud to have him as my successor. Give him your support, and, incidentally, if you're interested in being a Dodo contributor or staff member, give him a call.

Stay cool, man. Always try to see the humor in every situation - it'll keep you sane.

Sayonara,

The way we figure it, the Grim Reapers now have in their possession one of the coolest patches in the history of USAFA. Eventually, 31st will be forced to change their patch and accept an inferior squadron emblem; that's just the way it works. But for now, the Johnny Parka-esque "Grim Reaper," the skeleton with a scythe and a chain, is the finest example of a living legend: the legend of the cool patches of the Air Force Academy.

BY THE SHORT HAIRS

Ever since I decided to cross-commission into the Marines upon graduation, I have found the history and evolution of the military hairstyle fascinating. Although the short haircut was originally designed to help stop the spread of lice through the ranks, my calculations say that in today's permissive and debased society it could also prevent the spread of herpes, loose airborne dust, chemical or nuclear fallout and mellowness. And God knows we certainly want to avoid that last one in the ranks of the professional man. Anyway, I have found a nifty solution to those nagging "microhairs" around the ears that can give you a casual appearance and sometimes lead to Form's 10.

You simply take a Q-Tip or a soft cloth (like you would use for shining shoes), coat it liberally (I use the term loosely) with a hair remover like Nair (I know that's female stuff, but used right, it can really make you look like a military machine). ~~Don't~~ Do not worry if you smear a little on your head -- you can get a crew cut so it will not be so noticeable. And besides, you can give yourself a crew cut in the privacy of your own room and avoid tipping the barber!

Internalize these guidelines and do your Academy an honorable service! I know I have!

A DODO SONG

"96 TOURS"

by ! and the Centurians

(sung to "96 Tears" by ? and the Mysterians)

Too many tours for two legs to be marchin'
Too many tours for one cadet to suffer through
You're way on top now, since you left us
You're always laughin', way down at us
But watch out now - I'm gonna get strack
We'll be together for a long, long time
And then I'm gonna put you out on the pad

And you'll be marchin' 96 tours
March - march

And when the tour begins, I'll be the monitor
You'll be right out there, gazin' up
And I might wave to you - "Come on in here"
But I don't see you wavin' now
I'm way down here wonderin' how I'm gonna get you
But I know now -

I'll just march - march
I'll just march -

Too many tours for two legs to be marchin'
Too many tours for one cadet to suffer through

You're gonna march 96 tours
You're gonna march 96 tours
You're gonna march - march march march, now
You're gonna march - march march march, 96 tours
C'mon, let me see you march now - 96 tours - hoo!
I wanna see you march all weekend long - yeah!
All day long, oh, 96 tours - march march march
C'mon, dink, lemme see you march now
All day long, oh, 96 tours - yeah, c'mon now
96 tours

ELEVEN CADETS "SUCK IT UP"

by RONAD

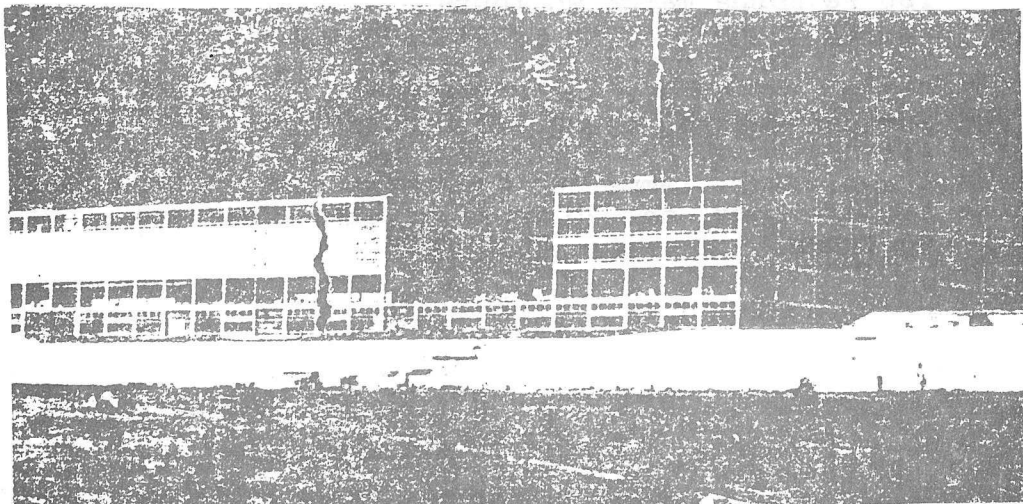

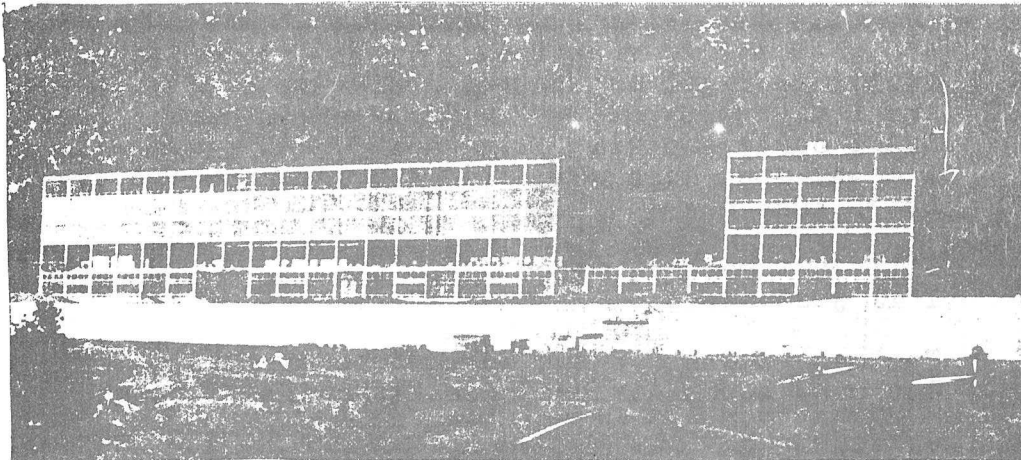

The faculty in Fairchild Hall was taken by surprise last month when the building unexpectedly split apart. Engineers and firemen hurried to the scene, but were too late to save the eleven odd cadets who fell into the crack.

The crack was allegedly caused by the math department. In an interview with the Dean, it was revealed that the math department has been planning the split for some time.

"It's no secret that they (the math department) have been trying to get closer to the Comm Shop for years. When I didn't approve their plan for a catwalk to the Comm Shop, I should have expected the inevitable. I suppose it was the weight of that last shipment of Forms 10 that did it," said the Dean.

When questioned, the math department said nothing, except to point the finger at the political science department. As one member of the math department put it, "They're so unprofessional over there, I wouldn't be surprised if they did it just to make us look bad."

Whatever the true cause of the split may be, the facts are eleven cadets are defunct and the math department is cracked down the middle. A lot of work will have to be done before things are back to normal again.

Dear Mr. SINGLETON JR:

You were notified in a previous letter that government records indicate you may be in violation of Federal law because you failed to register with the Selective Service System. To date, we have not received your response to our earlier letter.

Federal law requires each man born on or after January 1, 1960, to register with the Selective Service System within 30 days of his 18th birthday. Willful failure to register in accordance with the law is punishable, upon conviction, by up to 5 years imprisonment and/or a $10,000 fine.

TO REMOVE YOUR NAME FROM THE LIST OF THOSE WHO FAILED TO REGISTER, THE ENCLOSED FORM MUST BE COMPLETED AND RETURNED IN THE POSTAGE-PAID ENVELOPE WITHIN 15 DAYS.

NOTE: By registering at this time YOU DO NOT WAIVE any right to exemption or deferment that you will have if you are ever ordered for induction.

If you have already registered we regret the inconvenience. In all cases we ask that you complete the enclosed form and return it to us.

Sincerely,

Even as you read this advertisement, a member of the Class of 1983 is getting boofed again. You see, since the day they arrived at the Air Force Academy, '83 has been handed one "bad deal" after another, and now the Bluepeace Society has decided it's time to "stop the slaughter." With your help, we can put an end to the CWIT "'83 hunts" that have plagued these unfortunate souls for the last four years. Please, help us. . .

CAFFEINAHOLICS ANONYMOUS

In the early morning hours, it strikes.....

an affliction so insidious, so dangerous, so utterly horrible in implication that it threatens the very sanity of hundreds of America's top young men and women without their slightest suspicion.

THE SCENARIO: It is 7:30 AM in Mitchell Hall. Cadets sit at tables in small groups, seemingly engaged in idle conversation. Closer inspection reveals one common element: a coffee cup perched in each cadet's trembling hand. These "coffee rings" as they have come to be known in educated circles, have become increasingly widespread since the inception of morning PMT. Even more disturbing is the fact that this practice has been carried into the dormitories where the coffee is prepared with cadet-owned coffee distillation apparatus.

Despite this, the decaffeinated coffee remains untouched, which points to the unsettling fact that these cadets seek, even crave, the high-powered body-convulsing rush of pure organic caffeine. They are habitually driven to drink the substance with obsession bordering on savagery. This brings on the symptomatic chills, shaking limbs, hyperactivity and even the ability to stay awake through such classes as PMS and Physics.

Another opium fad? Perhaps. The new cocaine? Maybe. But the fact remains: caffeine is the No. 1 killer of cadets in Colorado. If you notice a strange new nocturnal disposition in your roommate's behavior or if you yourself are too wired to think, call our CRASH (Caffeine Rehab and Self Help) hotline today. Or just mellow out.

The Rennebergers have taken advantage of the novelty of the tub to have fun with their friends. One year Mr. and Mrs. Renneberger and their two children got into the tub and donned Santa Claus caps for their annual Christmas picture. They used the photograph on Christmas cards.

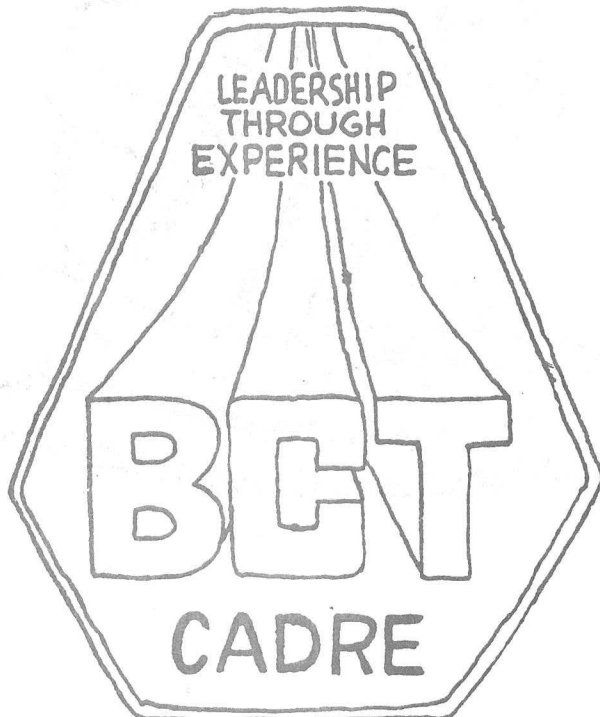

The Rennebergers sponsor two Air Force Academy cadets who have also participated in the amusement.

"Each Halloween one of the cadets paints himself green, like the Incredible Hulk and hides in the hot tub. We direct the trick-or-treaters around to the back of the house, where the steam is rising off the water in the tub. When the kids come around there, he comes out of the water and scares them to death," she said, laughing.

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Hello. I am the Editor, and I edit this magazine (because I am the Editor). This magazine is my baby! Isn't it wonderful? Isn't it costly and colorful? And you have to pay $12 a year for your mandatory subscription. Ha Ha. That's because I am in charge of this magazine, being that I am the Editor. I encourage all readers to send letters to the Editor (me) to tell me what a wonderfully edited magazine we have here at Taloin. Did you know that I get to skip intramurals to work on this? My latest irrelevant comment is that morale seems to be down in the wing. So come on cadets, get your morale up! By the way, the picture underneath this writing is of me, the Editor. I hope that you enjoy this edition of the Taloin.

GREATEST HITS—Cadet Drum and Bugle Corps

This is an outstanding album, professionally, technically, and musically. This album really made me want to get up and march around the room. They've got some great stuff in this one. "To the Colors" just sent chills up my spine—the booming drums, blaring trumpets, and spurting tubas were almost too much to handle. I could almost visualize the 4<sup>0</sup> flag girls twirling flags, strutting high. And of course everyone's favorite, "The Flight of Sound," was a real standout. This album is a must for your cadet collection!

SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER—Bee Gees ★★★★★

The Bee Gees are continually surprising me with their musical talent. This album is a classical and a must for every cadet's collection. The "Ah, Ah, Ah, stayin' alive" is one of my favorite lines. (I sing it all the time when I walk down the hall.) The music on this album makes me want to put on my tight black pants and boogie down at D.J.'s. I can't wait to see what the Bee Gees put out next.

SECURITY—Peter Gabriel 1/2

This album is not even worth a whole star in my book. Peter Gabriel must be a really strange character. His lyrics and music are totally bizarre. His only decent song off this album is "Shock the Monkey." It probably would be a great song if they had a better vocalist like Doris Day. I can't believe this band stays together after listening to this. Why don't they get some real jobs and stop polluting people's minds with their junk.

WORKOUT ALBUM—Jane Fonda ★

I really don't understand this one. I mean it had no real songs on it. It just had some "one, two, three, four" and "get your legs up." It just goes to show how messed up this anti-American person is. T

BORE STORY

BY MAJOR LARRY SIMMS, '66

I was a supply officer in 'Nam. Yep, I sure was; that was me, alright. Um, saw some action one day when an old master sergeant named Sam Morris drove a jeep right smack into one of the supply tents! "That was the day a 'SAM' hit us," we used to say. Yup, that was 'Nam, alright. Uh-huh.

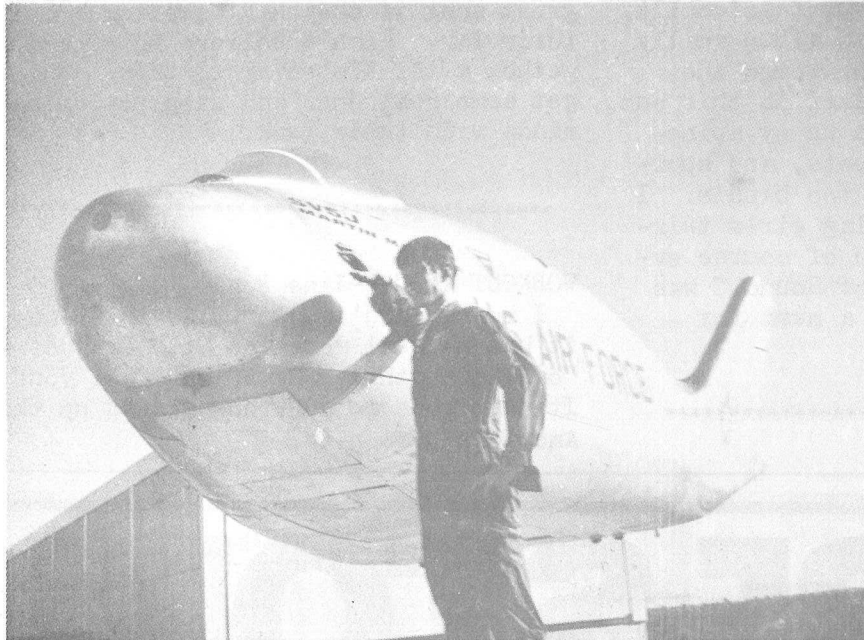

Sometimes we'd paint little red stars on our empty beer cans and then we'd write "MiG" on 'em, too, and then we'd set 'em up on a fence and shoot at 'em with our service revolvers. "Shootin' down MiGs," we called it. Yup. I shot down, oh, near thirty, I reckon. That makes me an "ace" six times over, you know.

Did two tours over there in 'Nam. Those were the days, let me tell you. War is hell, they say, but Logistics is, well, I won't say what it is.

That was 'Nam, alright, it sure was. And I was right there in the middle of it.

Every morning
I get up
And go to
Morning training
I feel so happy
When it's sunny

In the hall
I know I won't
Be late
For my appointment
At the clinic;
They say
I'm overweight

Sometimes people
Stare at me
And talk
Behind my back.
Guess I'll mope

The Olde COMM SHOPPE

ALL NEW! GIFT CATALOGUE for SUMMER '83

EXPLODING "PHONY" ID CARD

Next time you're carded by a security guard in another squadron, just hand them this realistic military ID. Then stand back and watch the fun when it goes up in a magnesium-white flash of light in his hand! Imagine the laughs you'll get when you see the look of horror and hear the blood-curdling screams from your hapless victim!

MILITARY "SKIN-CAP" WIG

No more problems with "bad hairs" once you slip on one of these form-fitted military hairstyles. Just put it on before formation and avoid the sneering glances of the inspectors. Your real hair fits snugly under the cap, while the built-in "whitewalls" and regulation hair length of the cap will foil the closest inspections.

Comes in the new "crew cut" model, too!!

DORM ROOM SOLAR REFLECTORS

With summer around the corner, don't be without this fine product of CW technology! Especially designed for north and south-facing rooms, it reflects those tanning rays right to where you live. Don't take another trip to the quad to lay in wet grass, falling debris and tasteless music ever again! Easily installed outside any dorm window to create your own private beach. With this device, free periods will take on a new meaning!

INTRAVENOUS COFFEE DISPENSER

Remember the frustration you felt while writing your last paper when the Pepsi machine was empty, your coffee pot was empty, and when you finally drank some it took an hour for it to take effect; by which time you were asleep? End those problems by shooting that mud right into your bloodstream for a fast-acting and powerful buzz with this nifty gimmick. Just fill with your favorite brand, stick the needle into the vein of your choice, and you won't be able to stop writing for days!

Design One, (from the original USAFA architects) incorporates a classic design viewed from a new perspective. Considered a 'sure bet' for post card and stationary sales.

Design Two utilizes 212 floors in a bold departure from traditional 'academy architecture'. This proposal boasts 18 full size theaters, each featuring continuous showing of 'Commitment to Excellence'.

Design Three implements the basic, financially feasible 'block concept.' This proposal provides enough storage space for 12,000,000 'Go Falcons' sweatshirts and a complementary supply of 30,000 'I Know Someone at the Air Force Academy' T-shirts.

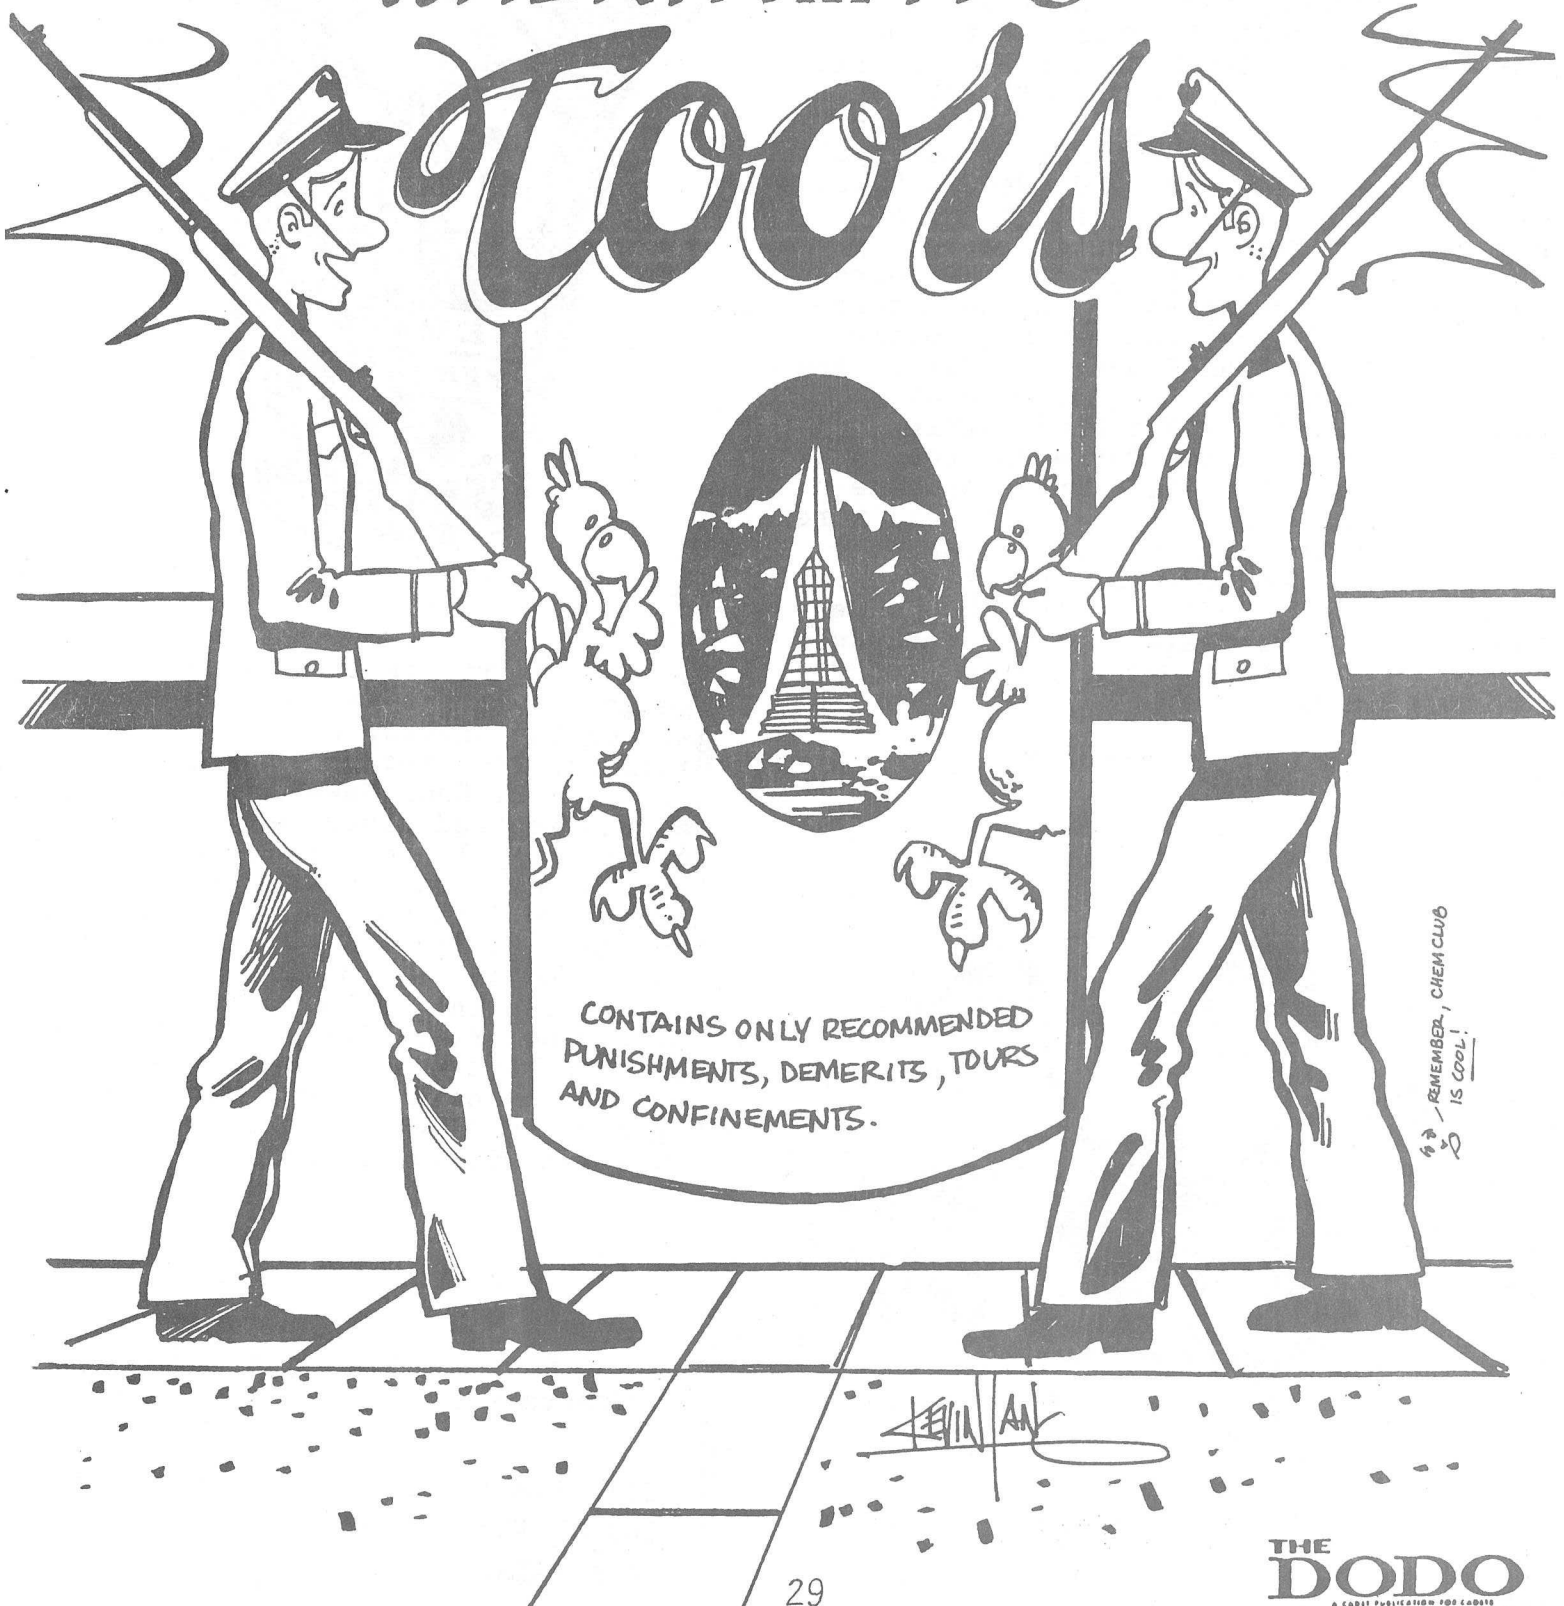

Design Four (not pictured) would implement the infamous 'tunnels' in a truly 'avant-garde' approach to tourist accomodation. This proposal is based on a complex series of underground passages culminating in a 'free demo' K ration for nuclear-minded enthusiasts.

A final tribute to Stu Pope, a.k.a. "Manchu" a.k.a. "Mr. Dodo," who created Joe Strack Comix, CQ for God, the DODO-FODO, the A-Hall Theatre attractions, Adverse-tisements, Games to Play With Your Calculator, and the SERE Weight-Loss Program, USAFA's Believe It...Or Rot, TV Guidon, the Biff & Lumpoe stories, Ask the Radical, Dodor's Profiles, Animals of the Academy, the Cool Patch Collection, and WACQ FM, Random Survival Uses of the Parachute, Dodo Record News, The Latelight Zone, "Missing," and a multitude of other concepts, including Academy Records & Tapes, which featured the immortal Johnny Parka and the Accessories, the Bogies, Quad Wads, Dancing Bears, AOC/DC, Dink Floyd, Mr. Garcia and the Illegal Aliens, the Square Root Club, Jan and the Dean, A Flock of Magpies, Punchin' Paul and the Terrazzo Frogs, Ted Offensive and the VC5, Heavy D and the Restrictions, Blue Uniform Cult, and more. Stu started working on the Dodo as a freshman and took over as editor as a junior, seeing to it that the Dodo came out on a regular basis and contained only top-notch material. Buena suerte at UPT at Laughlin AFB, Stu.

And a last tribute to Pete Bartos, the great wit and cartoonist who gave us The Ghetto, Phantom of the Blizzard, the wind-proof flight cap, and the Dodo News Clips; the man who created covers and explored social and political issues, from the Academy arena to that of the nation. To Pete Bartos, who told us the "Ways to Spot Potential Democrats" and treated us to a myriad of cartoons in the Dodo, the Taloin, and the Contrails Calendar. Your cartoons were more than just funny, Pete - they held insight and intelligence. Good luck out there in the "real" Air Force and in UPT at Reese AFB.

And Good Luck to each and every Graduate of the Class of 1983!
