TALKING PAPER
ON
THE ANTI-DODO EDITOR'S PAGE

- Welcome to the Anti-Dodo.

- It has been almost 50 years, but now we have a voice! That's right my fellow cadets, we are free to pour out of love for USAFA unashamedly, and be the young professionals we are advertised to be

- Putting this issue together was the proudest accomplishment of my cadet career. I mean, besides

- Interviewing for Wing Superintendent
- Going to AETC
- Almost making the Honor Guard
- Getting that one-pair of prop-and-wings
- Almost finding a date for Ring Dance last weekend

- Honestly, I cannot wait to get back to shining my shoes every night instead of drawing. I long for the smell of starch, the taut bliss of eight shirt garters, and the delicious precision of placing my "slick wings" on my blues. Uniform preparation is my favorite part of the day

- Now I'm rambling, which is completely unprofessional blush

- What I'd like to say is that I hope you enjoy the issue

- It is so much better than that nasty old "Dodo" they used to put out

- Those people should get an Article 15 or something

IF YOU COULD HOLD ANY POSITION IN THE WING, WHAT WOULD IT BE AND WHY?

I want to be the Wing Commander... who doesn't???

I would like to be an element leader because that's where the real leadership is at. The Element Leaders are the most influential person in a cadet's chain of command.

I think I would make a good Director of Support because I would put the good of the Cadet Wing before my own ambitions and I SWEAR that if I got the job, that I would incorporate more forms and process in getting broken items in the Cadet Area fixed. I am willing to be the "bad guy" because I want this incredible institution to be organized and orderly.

I would be Group XO you do nothing and get tons of privileges.

bboy
(Cover man extraordinaire)

Silver Bullet

Hitman

I would be Peanut Butter NCO.
That position doesn't exist, but it really should, cuz who doesn't like peanut butter?

I would be wing superintendent so I could run the NCOs in the wing right into the ground and restrict everyone because I am not smart enough to hold a staff position and pass my classes. Also I really enjoy screwing everyone possible over for a 4.0
MPA.

Element leader... because they're the tip of the spear; molders of future Air Force officers.
What more responsibility could I ask for?
Having a chance to fill out training folders and upholding the standards of the wing... PLUS I have the extremely rare opportunity to receive the highly coveted 2.5 MPA.

Mouth-watering!

TASTY!

I'm glad we look after nature. If we had built that Parking lot by Sijan Hall bigger, we could have destroyed the ecosystem and I wouldn't be able to experience nature to my car. Dude, then I wouldn't be able to experience nature or get my 30 mile hike in... I'm so happy the Academy prevented my life from being easier, cuz harder is better!! “ASK THE ANTI DODO”

Ques. Dear Anti-Dodo, how did you get to be so cool? I mean, I've been here for three years, and I can't figure out how to be as cool as you!

- C2C Brownnose

Ans. Well C2C Brownnose, I became so cool by selling out. Becoming the person you've always hated and giving in to the establishment is the only way to get friends and be popular.

Ques. Anti-Dodo, the old “Dodo” was such a bad publication. What happened to it, and how could such an awful thing have run for so long?

-C3C Magnoliafan

Ans. Magnolianfan (I love that name), the “Dodo” was forced out of existence by our superb leadership. There are rumors that it will resurface, but those are just lies created by those people. Anyways, the reason the “Dodo” survived for so long was because out of all the generals and colonels that served at USAFA since 1955, BG Gilbert and Colonel Slavic are the first and only officers ever to stand up to the toilet humor and unprofessionalism. This type of humor will no longer be tolerated, because tradition has been wrong all these years.

Ques. Dear Anti Dodo, how did '05 turn out to be the best class ever?

-Silver & Strong

Ans. That's an easy one. '05 came in with the best numbers, the best demographics, and the best chances for success. They came at a time of the best ideas (excellence time, etc.). By no having any meaningful training at all, they had plenty of time to grow in other ways (eating candy bars, watching DVDs, wearing civvies).

Please accept my apologies and those of the Blue Tube staff for the segment entitled "Mitch Lite Tables" that aired this past week. We at Blue Tube did not intend to degrade or insult any of our viewers. In the effort to produce a show that prompts critical consideration of life here at the Academy and simultaneously brings a little humor to that life, we run the risk of overstepping bounds. We clearly did so with this episode.

You as viewers cannot know the many times we have chosen not to run a proposed piece because we felt it in fact did go over the line or miss the mark. On this particular occasion we unintentionally let our guard down. Dear Cadet

Congratulations on your recent commitment to the Academy and the Air Force. You have pledged to be a part of "the long blue line"--and you will always be thankful you did! I am writing to you because I want to emphasize the invaluable role a senior NCO plays in a well-run unit. The Creed of the Noncommissioned Officer states:

"No one is more professional than I. I am a noncommissioned officer, a leader of men and women. Competence is my watchword. My two basic responsibilities will always be uppermost in my mind: accomplishment of my mission and the welfare of my people."

What powerful words of honor and commitment; certainly words to live by. As a second-class cadet, you execute the orders of the cadet officers and provide oversight of the third- and fourth-class cadets.

The senior NCO is the backbone of the AF, just as you are the backbone of the Academy. While your officers will provide direction, it is your work in the "trenches," your oversight of the NCOs and airmen in your cadet wing, that will determine whether we succeed or fail in our calling to commission the very best officers for the Air Force. Do not compromise; do not accept less than the very best! As the top NCOs of your wing, the third- and fourth-class cadets will watch your every action and follow your example. Always remember, our mission is to train leaders of character!

Sincerely

S. TACO GILBERT III, Brig Gen, USAF

PETA wants cadets to drink out of keg, not carton

The Gazette

Sept. 6 - People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals is taking its "Got Beer?" campaign to the Air Force Academy to ask cadets to quit drinking milk and drink beer instead.

The animal-rights group is targeting the academy and 14 other colleges recently ranked as a party school or "stone-cold sober" by the Princeton Review, a test-preparation and college admissions company with no ties to Princeton University.

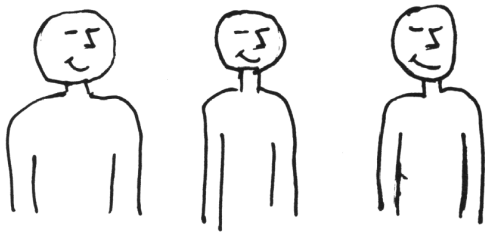

Students polled in the unscientific survey ranked the academy as an all-studies, no messing-around school, second in the category "scotch and soda, hold the scotch." Brigham Young University ranked first.

"Students at the U.S. Air Force Academy know that beer should only be consumed in moderation, but they may not be aware that even one glass of milk supports animal abuse and harms your health," said Bruce Friedrich, PETA spokesman.

The group plans to place a "Got Beer?" advertisement - a spoof on the popular "Got Milk?" campaign - in the Academy Spirit, the school newspaper, in the next two weeks.

The Innards (a dramatization)

As 4^os we had morning details to perform, I never complained about them, for this is why I came to the United States Air Force Academy...to serve my country, and if to serve my country meant emptying trashcans or even scrubbing toilets then so be it. Unfortunately, there exists among us a tiny minority who does not feel as passionate about serving their country as I. My roommate happens to be in this minority. One morning sometime ago we were being trained about not signing off and/or performing our details. I remember on this particular morn my roommate had neglected to perform his own detail. Therefore in order to remedy the situation, and ensure completion of our charge...nay our mission...our DUTY. I took flight to the bathroom and quickly emptied the trash therein. Seeing the detail sheet that we were suppose to initial, my thoughts were only of my roommate, and unfortunately my altruistic nature got the best of me and I wrote his initials in the block for his detail. It was later that day when I realized the gravity of the situation...I had become, in a matter of seconds, a dishonorable person. That evening I couldn't sleep, I tossed and turned the whole nightlong. That next morning, with the weight of the immense guilt I felt on my heart, I made a decision to save my soul from damnation. I knocked on my honor officer's door and confessed my sin to him. For me it was black and white, right and wrong, either I confess and am admonished or I would cast myself from the terrazzo. If only my roommate had never put me in this terrible situation, if he'd only realized that we were only doing our duty, then I never would have felt that immense guilt, which, I pledge to you, is so much terribly worse than the measly 6 months of probation (its actually suspended dis-enrollment...surprised you didn't know that) that I received...the probation was a gift of the permanent party, if I had been them, I would have thrown me out onto the streets to rot in my own corruption. So, with my story told, I beseech you to not take the step into the same pitfall that I did. I leave you now with these three hallowed words: Duty, Honor, Country...

THE Anti-Dodo Permanent Party of the Month:

MARK REIS The Gazette

Since Brig. Gen. Taco Gilbert returned to the Air Force Academy in August 2001 as commandant overseeing cadet military training, the wing has improved, Gilbert and cadets say.

Under Gilbert's command, every cadet job is important, especially upperclass cadets mentoring younger ones.

Cadets didn't always march in step. Dirt was found in dorm rooms that are supposed to be spotless. Cadets, especially seniors, didn't always address each other as "sir" and "ma'am" in front of younger cadets.

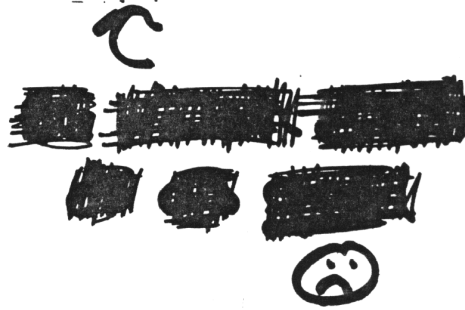

THE "BAD DAYS"

He still is a smart task master!

Brig. Gen. Taco Gilbert came to the academy aware of the bad publicity that dogged the elite school.

Some longed for the comparatively laid-back days of the former commandant, Brig. Gen. Mark Welsh.

He was a smart taskmaster who didn't joke much and expected his people to look good and know their material, said Betty Vane, his secretary.

I agree with her!

Senior cadet Jennifer Stoltenberg said Gilbert's approach is paying off. It led to better discipline in this year's basic cadet training, the freshmen's first six weeks of training, run by upperclassmen. "You can see the long-term effects by looking at the freshmen now. They are very sharp. This was the first impression they got in the school," she said.

We're through the storm as long as Gen. Gilbert is here!

Gilbert isn't sure the return to strict discipline is preventing illegal acts, but he thinks classmates now would be more likely to report such behavior. "I think we are through the storm. We cleaned up a lot," Gilbert said. "What I am after is that long-term morale. That is hard to get. That is hard to build, but once you have it, you can weather any storm."

Ten Schools Where the Students Never Stop Studying

This article is brought to you by The Princeton Review, a sponsor of the College and Grad pages on MSN Learning & Research.

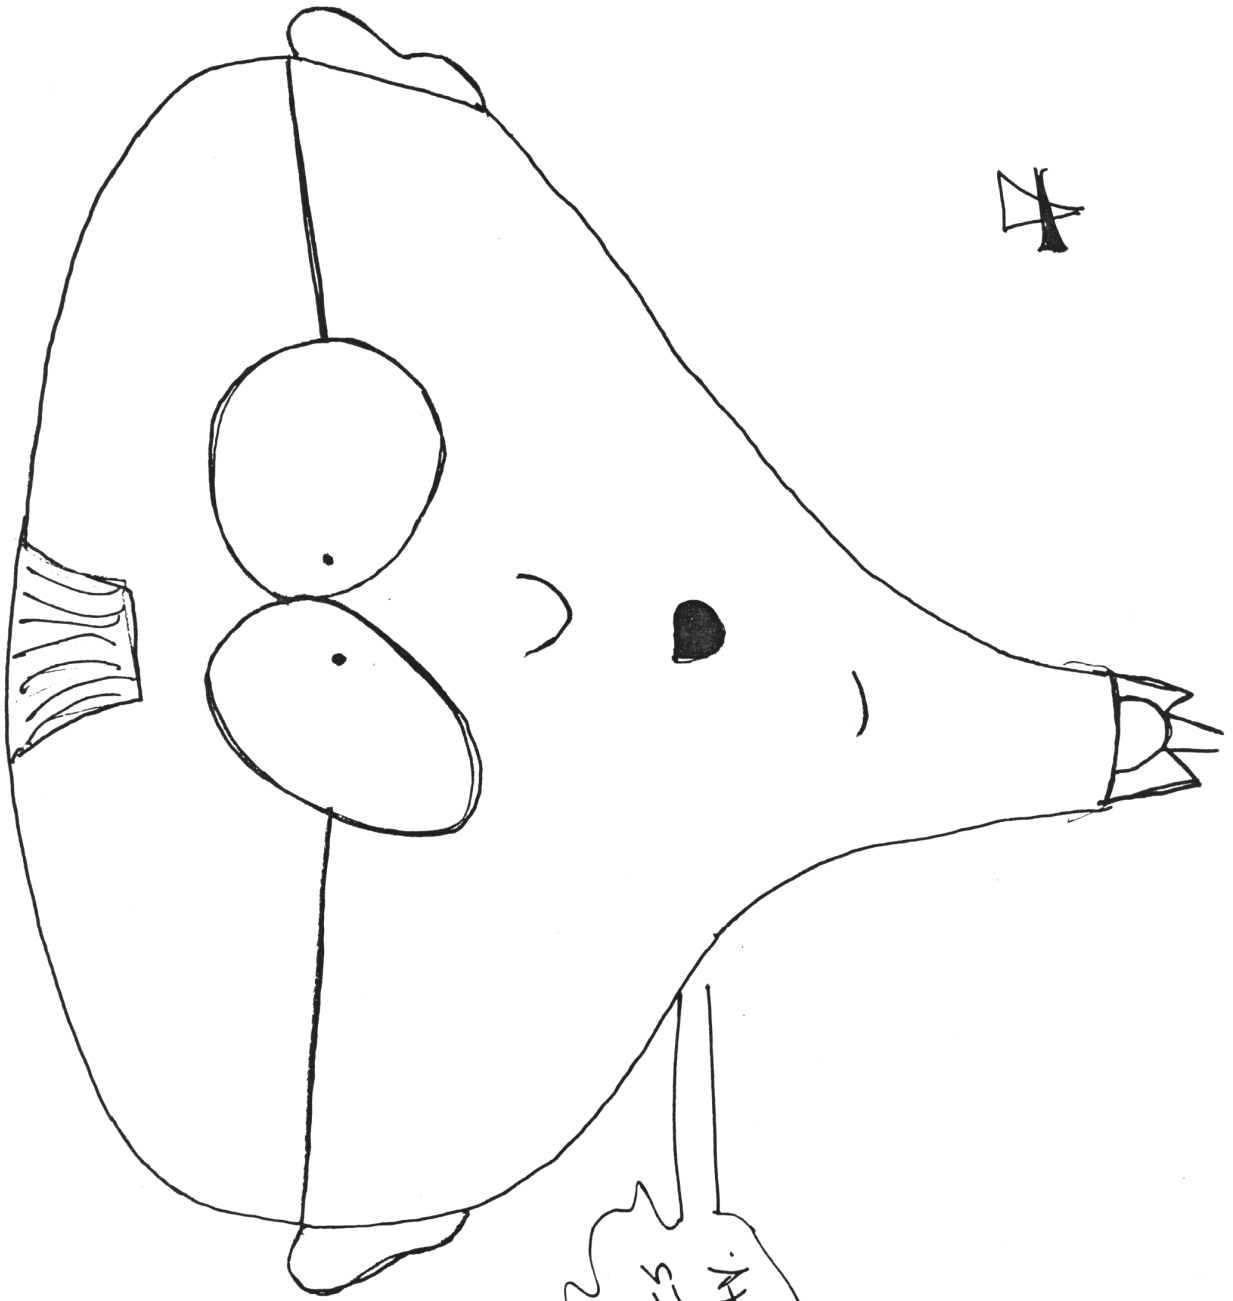

For some single-minded types, college means one thing and one thing only: studying. Although it may be tough at times, the rewards can be tremendous. The following schools attract students whose noses stay pretty much glued to the grindstone.

1. United States Air Force Academy

By all accounts, the workload here is tremendous. As one student put it, "They purposely place 25 hours of tasks in every 24-hour day. It's tough, but if you work as a team and put forth all your effort every day, this place won't be too bad." Another student puts a positive spin on the grind of the Air Force Academy, claiming that, "Overall it's a good experience; we learn time management very quickly."

2. Webb Institute
3. US Coast Guard Academy
4. MIT
5. Harvey Mudd College
6. WPI
7. Wellesley College
8. Wabash College
9. Smith College
10. Cornell University

USAF IS THE NUMBER ONE
BESTEST PLACE EVER!!!
YAY!

My dedicated readers,

Golly gee this Anti-Dodo stuff is sooooooo cool. I fit in now. I can't believe that once I was a cynic. But now I am back on track and loving USAFA with more of my heart and soul than ever. I even had a four-degree show me how to put razor sharp creases in my underwear, and now I am a better man for it. I iron all of my clothes with razor creases, even my socks. It helps the twelve shirt garters hold on better if you starch them too. I have spent countless hours shining my shoes. Three cans of polish this week, plus two more of neutral. I can't believe how great I feel when I can see myself in my shoes. I walk around on the T-Zo sometimes just comparing my shine job to everyone else's. I can honestly say that other than a few guys on honor guard, I have the shiniest shoes in the wing. The secret, Gentle Readers, is to use cotton balls and then a chamois buffer rag, before you put on the neutral polish. You all should try seeing just how great you can look. It is amazing...the feeling you get. The feeling of having a perfect uniform, with my nametag resting perfectly and oh so tight against my shirt pocket, my shoes beaming with glare from being so shiny, my pants being completely lint free with creases you can cut yourself on, that feeling is better than anything. It's better than skydiving, better than roller coasters, better than the O-course!!! I used to spend a little time getting ready for the day, and more time thinking of how much I hate USAFA, but training wing has turned me to the better life. I have found a new meaning in life, and it is looking great and making sure I get that 4.0. I have made a list of tips that help you ensure you will get a 4.0 MPA. So read carefully, and get that 4.0 like me!!!

TIPS FOR SUCCESS IN THE MPA SYSTEM

1. Spend more time on your uniform than anything else, including parties, studying, drinking, or being a friend to anyone!!!
2. Don't forget to pimp over every single person you can to make yourself look good to your AOC and above!!!
3. Make sure that you clean your room four times before an AMI...eight times is suggested for a SAMI!!!
4. Pad your weekly documentation with how many forms 10 you gave everyone...it is suggested that you hand them out for anything in the gray area, and don't forget to make sure your name is on them!!!
5. Be sure to turn in everyone for every infraction...you can't get that 4.0 with a condonation hit in your CPRII!!!
6. Make sure that you are always around when your AOC is...brown nosing and bootlicking are two specialties that you must master. They will also serve you well when interviewing for that key staff position!!!

Good luck to everyone on getting that 4.0, but unless you can do it like me, you will have to settle for a 3.75, which in my book is unacceptable.

THE ANTI-DODO LOVE CORNER

Ladies, how do you know if he's the right guy for you??? Well, the Anti-Dodo staff has compiled a top ten list...

HOW TO KNOW IF YOUR MAN IS NOT STRACT ENOUGH (and therefore, not good enough to date)

- #10. On Friday night, when you want to study for the reg test coming up in two months, and he wants to go out to the movies or something is a good time to ask yourself if this is really the man you want to father your children.
- #9. You walk into your man's room and see his blues shirt hanging up on closet hooks (closet hooks for crying out loud!!!)...guess what? No shirt garters!!! Drop him then and there.
- #8. Ask him how many bottles of edge-dressing he goes through a week. If the answer is less than 2, start hanging around honor guard practice to find dates.
- #7. He posts 4-degrees.
- #6. His DVD collection includes some of the titles listed in "The Anti-Dodo's Ten Worst Movies Ever".
- #5. His hospital corners are at 46 degree angles.
- #4. He would rather go out on a Saturday than attend the USAFA JV Girl's Water Badminton Team scrimmage.
- #3. He doesn't want to be on Wing Staff.
- #2. His hair is more "low and loose" than "high and tight".
- #1. He prefers the Dodo over the Anti-Dodo.

SIR, CADET FOURTH CLASS DYE REPORTS...
SIR, I NEED TO TURN MYSELF IN FOR VIOLATING THE HONOR CODE.

WHAT DID YOU DO
CADET DYE?

SIR, MY ROOMMATE ASKED ME
HOW I WAS DOING AND I TOLD HIM I WAS "GOOD". I LIED TO HIM BECAUSE I TOLD HIM
THAT I WAS GOOD WHEN I WAS ACTUALLY JUST "OK" AT THAT TIME.

HAVE YOU SEEN CADET JOHNSON?

Hello Cadet Smith!
Do you like my shoe?

CADET JOHNSON
WENT TO HARPS

Cadet Wing,

I hope this issue of the dodo finds you all healthy and well. I hope that all of you have overcome the challenges of day to day life here at USAFA...I pray that none of you failed the PFT, AFT, Astro, Aero, or Noon Meal Formation Marching.

We, the dodo staff have done our best to provide you with a well written, funny, and satirical representation of USAFA cadet life. We apologize to anyone who we may have offended, for that was not our intention. Please feel free to contact the editor or the assistant editor of this publication with complaints and suggestions.

When I was writing for this issue, I thought to myself, "would this offend my grandmother?" She might not find our cartoons and stories very funny, because of the generation gap between the old people and the young people, but would certain cartoon pictures, or certain punch lines offend the little old frail lady? The answer must be no. If she was offended by anything, then I took it out. I ran everything by her on this issue, and she personally told me that not only did she find it funny, but that none of it offended her at all! Mission successful!!!

For those of you who are interested, I am sorry to say, we are not, and will not ever, be selling out our old issues of this educational, satirical, and humorous publication. Get them while you can, because once they are gone, they are gone.

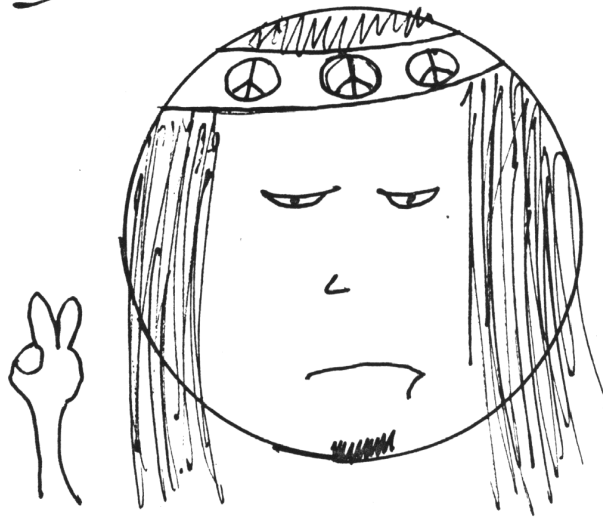

Look forward to future issues of this wonderful publication, we should be releasing the next issue in a month or so...

...until then, Here's to Parade Practice, Noon Meal IRIs, and GRs!!!

Best Wishes to all,

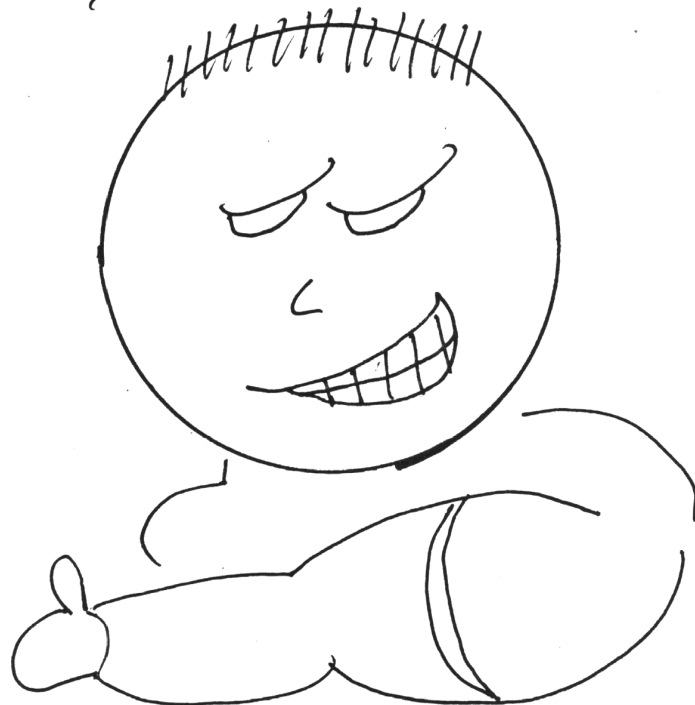

Dodo Staff
