THE CADET WING QUEEN 1963-1964

CHOSEN THE LOVELIEST OF THE TWENTY FOUR SQUADRON SWEETHEARTS

"Hollywood is where the stars rise".....a number, among them Tuesday Weld, Kim Novak, Anita Ekberg, and Jill St. John, were introduced to the magic filmland at the Deb Star Ball. In late 1963, ten more of America's most beautiful and talented young ladies were presented as the Deb Stars of 1964. One of those Hollywood crowned that night was Miss Brenda Benet.

But a young lady, so very beautiful, is not limited to a single coronation, and Brenda has graciously accepted the crown and the title of the Cadet Wing Queen, 1963-1964. Our Queen, Hollywood-born and at present a student at Los Angeles City College, has just completed a screen test with Universal. The 5'3" black-haired, brown-eyed beauty hopes this screen debut will at last launch her into the career her years of drama study and modern dancing have trained her for.....a star, rising over Hollywood, so bright that her radiance reaches warmly to the Air Force Cadet Wing.
