EDITOARZ PEAGE

Now that we're marching in the snow to remind us of the Frozen Chosin, I think it is about time that the D&B Commander earned his shoulderboards. Because he is setting the example for Wing Staff, I want to see him out there on the Blizzard Bridge wearing that obscene Glove o' Power every time we march. It's the least he can do to promote Discipline; either that or have him inspect the Flight of Sound every SAMI to see if they're Semi-Chroming their Fluglehorns.

Yeah, I know the February issue was late; blame it on the Censor Chain. We had it done by the 2nd, but they needed help with all the words over two syllables, so it didn't go to the printer's until the 27th. Sue me.

Besides, it takes a long time to cut all the funny articles out of a magazine. Or those with the word "KAFA" in them. Which reminds me: there is hope for a Reprieve for the Wing. A questionnaire regarding music format is going out, so be sure to respond. Where can you get a copy? Well, if you didn't want any cadets to answer your survey, how would you get it out? That's right- it's on the Net. Go figure.

Have pity on our Wing Demander: he is now banished to Parking Slot 355 in lower BFE. Yes, that's right, they have finally paid proper homage to the Dodo Commander, and I will parking in the best Cadet Slot in the Wing for the next two weeks, while he will have to E & E down to the golf course where my slot is. A fair trade that reflects the relative importance of our jobs, I'm sure.

Hey, stop whining about Bad Brad's new policies: the man is obviously having Class Identification problems (he can't remember if he was '59 or '95). But give him a break, they were still admitting states to the Union when he was a cadet....

I've already decided. See, I know for a fact that no Dodo Commander will ever get to go to UPT if there is even a chance to defer us. So I'm looking forward to three years of Air Force officership unhindered by genuine effort: if I know I get to go in '96, why work hard 'til then? And I'm not even going to pick a job; instead, I'll have Personnel RamGen my AFSC.

"Trust Cadets" my tuchis! Last Wednesday I woke from my between-class-rack at 1035 to find three NCOs going through my computer cabinet. Their whole job for the rest of the semester is to read serial numbers on monitors- I'm not kidding. That way, AOCs are made responsible for some 120 color screens and tuners. Which I can only look at as a good thing: if I need the cash and start to hate my Fearless Leader, I can always hock my monitor down in the Springs. But those "trustworthy" NCOs ate all my Oreos, the fascists. I would have stopped them, but I was really comfortable, you know?

Instead of griping about the SPs stealing all our books from Fairchild for no apparent reason, let's do something about it. When they announce that everything will be snatched from the stairwells, everybody go get as many books as you can carry and take them over there. Fill the place. Take last year's books. Take your roommate's. Bring old Reg books. Hey, the front gate shack can only hold about one hundred without making the Airman stand outside, so I'm sure they'll reconsider quickly. C'mon, guys. It's what the Ten would have done...

And for all those three and four degrees who constantly moan and groan about "No cars" and "No passes" and tough weekends and training and wah-atever, I have only one thing to say: SHUT THE HELL UP. You can still leave, Dork. That's what we call an Option, you silly inbred morons. Something '92 and '93 vaguely recall, instead of the our new alternative: "You want cream and sugar with that, sir?"

Remember you Underclassmen: USAFA JC. Two years for Free.

FOR WHAT IT'S WORTH...

by TEFLON '93

Well, here it is almost spring again. Falcon love will soon be in bloom, Touri will show up for formations, the quads will fill up with sunbathers (until someone drops a wastebasketful of water on 'em), and Prog'll destroy our social lives. At times like this, it's nice to pause a moment, let our frostbitten genitals thaw out after a long season of marching across the icy tundra that was the Terrazzo, and reflect on why we're here: because officers get the babes, we can fly better than that idiot Tom Cruise, and our damned LO lost our ROTC paperwork.

*****

Here's a question that's been bothering me since 3rd grade: If you sneeze and your eyes are open, will you blow your eyeballs right out of your head? And would you get Ac Only for that or maybe a day of bedrest?

*****

I'd like to see George Bush lose the election just so his damned dog wouldn't write any more books.

*****

The New Kids on the Block showed up on Arsenio recently to prove that they don't lip-synch on their albums. The only thing they really proved is that the Brady Bunch and Partridge Family could make some big bucks today and that Donnie Wahlberg has about as much rhythm as an albino _____.

*****

What's the deal with cartoons nowadays? I was watching "The Smurfs," a soap opera about little blue creatures in WWF tights who live amid the fungus, and Smurfette had apparently found some way to get a baby. Now, with a dozen male Smurfs and one girl, you'd expect one of the guys maybe to deny having done the dirty deed, right? No. Smurfette claims it's not her kid. Now, I don't know much about the biology of these things, but I think she's full of it. And Papa Smurf looks mighty suspicious to me...

*****

Just for the record, both Elton John and David Bowie are no longer homosexuals. Bowie, in fact, claims that he's "violently heterosexual." Welcome back, guys.

*****

Thanks to the cast of "Beverly Hills 90210" for bringing cheesy sideburns back in style. Every third person here is now an Elvis impersonator.

*****

If Wing Staff wants money for charity, they can look somewhere else; I already give to two. They can try and get it from Sno-white and the AOG.

We came here three long years ago
 Now we've got one year to go
 This place has been a hell to me
 'Cause they keep screwing with '93

Our dance when we receive our rings
 Our day when we feel just like kings
 But our lady friends have finals, you see
 Ring dance people screwing '93

Reductions in force, our congress sobs
 And now we seem to have no jobs
 A future that is bleak to see
 'Cause the government is screwing '93

Back on the hill, we'll sit on our
 Because Hosmer cut back on our passes
 So here we'll stay, our rooms in SAMI
 'Cause Hosmer's screwing '93

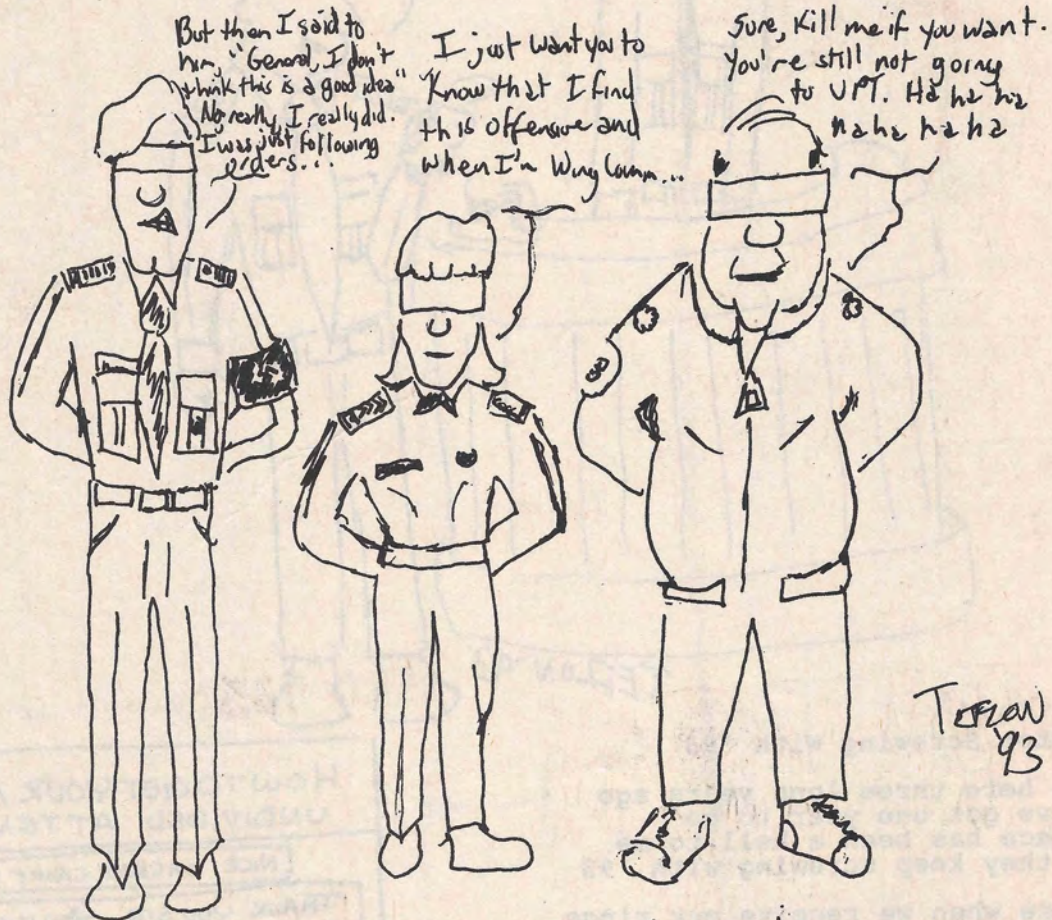

No pilot slots to keep us alive
 Soon they'll see us five and dive
 A free education, and a civilian track
 Then '93 can screw USAFA back.

Some fear law will hurt Air Force recruitment

Associated Press

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. — A new law that will require Air Force Academy graduates to compete for a regular commission with other officer training graduates is unfair and may hurt recruiting, some observers say.

Beginning with the freshman class of 1993, academy graduates will be commissioned for one year as Air Force reserve officers, instead of regular officers. The change is part of a new defense authorization bill signed Nov. 26 by President Bush.

The Senate Armed Services Committee proposed the change, contending all new service-academy graduates should prove themselves first as active-duty reservists before receiving regular commissions. The change applies to graduates of the Air Force Academy, the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., and the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

After serving for a year as reservists, academy graduates will compete with Officer Training School and ROTC graduates for regular commissions.

The law assumes the three types of graduates "are basically the same," an assumption that angers academy supporters, said Col. Mike Wallace, Air Force Academy spokesman.

"It's no secret we at the Air Force Academy don't agree with the legislation," he said.

Retired Lt. Gen. Thomas Moorman, a former academy superintendent, predicted the new law, which takes effect Oct. 1, 1996, will hurt the academy's recruitment program and "decrease the desirability of young men and women to enter the academy."

Wallace, however, doesn't foresee any effect on recruiting.

"What you're dealing with out there are 16 and 17 year olds who aren't ... really knowledgeable about the difference between a reserve commission and a regular commission," he said. "Once they're into this program, they're going to be more concerned."

But Wallace thinks it is unfair for academy graduates to have to prove themselves as reservists for a year.

Academy graduates are five or six years ahead of other officer program graduates because they live a military life for four years, he said.

ROTC graduates attend civilian universities and devote a few hours a week to military training. People with degrees from civilian colleges receive a few months of military training before graduating from Officer Training School.

Wah, wah, wah.
I gotta wear a uniform
two times a week.

Yes, this is true. This will be law for the Class of '96. Life sucks, don't it?

From a guest writer:

Cadet First Class Johnny Kubinec and USAFA's Vice Commandant of Cadet Colonel Marty Daackster recently returned from a fact-finding trip to Orlando, Fla., U.S.A. where they met with Disney World management expert and head cheese, M. Mouse. Upon his return from the ten-day excursion, honorary Mouseketeer Daackster sporting mouse headgear and honorary Goofy Kubenic, sporting his typical smile had the following to report: Mouseketeer Daackster, "There's gonna' be some changes around here." Where have I heard that before?

Rumor has it (the only place to get good information at the Academy) that Mr. Marty has secret plans to build a scaled-down version of the Disney World "Space Mountain" on Spirit Hill to retrain Firsttees on the Academy experience. "Traveling at high speeds in the dark, with abrupt changes in direction, is just the what these cadets need, especially after the UPT selection board results are released from my friend Col "Top Gun" Stokes," said the Daackster. Upon hearing this announcement, C1C Johnny "The Pinworm" Kubinec immediately volunteered his SMACKS to test the project. "It's only fair since I just gave them phase 3 in their training," stated "The Pinworm". Plans for this project however are temporarily at a halt until a new regulation can be written and General "Jumpin Joe" Redden is back in form from his leg replacement. He commented, "I want to be the first to try Mr. Marties new toy." Well, I guess it will take as long as TOPOFF getting approved.

Have a great day!

THINGS THAT MAKE YOU GO HMMMMMM...
(the new and improved version)

Hi. I'm back. I know I said I wanted to do a sequel, but being a second semester firstie, I never figured I would, having become a lazy slug, know what I mean, Vern? And then it happened again. It was breakfast or lunch (they all kinda blur together these days) and I was standing so dutifully behind my chair, 21 years, 4 months and a couple of days old, waiting for permission to sit down, because, well, it's important that we all sit down "together" right? Right. Anyway, the dude on the staff tower goes "Wing Tench-HUT!.....at ease." And I thought, why do they pause like that? Is some purpose served? Does the announcer get his jollies because for four and a half seconds he is in ABSOLUTE control of us all? And then suddenly the mountains shook, the clouds covered the sky, lightning struck and silence fell across the land as a voice inside my head said, "Yours is not to question why, but if you really must know it is because he's a wing staffer, stupid." HMMMMMM, I replied. And that was all it took to open the flood gates of a flurry of things that make me go hMMMMMMMMMM:

- You know I gotta say something about the time surveys. Now wait, they're concerned about our time (or lack thereof) so they make us waste 3 or 4 friggin' hours filling out bubblesheets? All I can say is that Christmas trees sure are pretty when they're made out of bubbles.

- Y'all know what's coming next. Class lights in Mitchell Hall. Yeah, right. There's somebody in some desk job saying, "I gotta change something, I gotta leave my mark, I gotta make a name for myself. I KNOW, I'll make it so firsties can leave Mitch's before two degrees who can leave before three degrees with the fourthclass bringing up the rear! And we'll use lights so even simpletons can figure it out! That will really promote class distinction, won't it? Boy, my grandkids will be proud of me someday, I tell ya!" Guess who the real simpleton is? Get a life, bub. Wake up and smell what you're shoveling.

- All day CQ. All day CQ. I'm definitely pondering this one. All day CQ. Naturally they didn't start this until after the time survey...Oh yeah, not to mention the wingees and groupies who are gonna walk around in civies and check the CQs security capabilities. Who comes up with this stuff? Just give me a key so I can lock my door. That might have kept my camera from "disappearing".

- Why did they give us three pair of parade pants which we wear once a year and one pair of athletic shorts that we wear every day?

- O.K., this next one is to all you guys wearing sideburns. GIVE IT UP! If this is some weak form of rebellion it's exactly that...weak. You look like fools, so let's leave the early seventies and come back to the future.

- What does it mean when a girl you lust after says..."I really appreciate your friendship..."? (Oh, flatter me please, 'cause the truth hurts too much)

- Who got a burr up their ~~about~~ about bikes on the terrazzo? Are they worried we might hurt ourselves amongst the endless construction? Were they the victims of a vicious mountain bike attack? Have they ever had to do a group project where your partner lives in 31rst squad and you live in six? Bikers got rights too you know...

- P.S.-- the Humane society doesn't want us to call our cats and dogs "pets" anymore. The politically correct term is "companion animals". I'm not sure if this includes boa constrictors kept in the overheads. (You know who you are)

- We can't wear ear rings, but I wonder if nipple rings are allowed? Ooooooh, ouch that just hurts thinking about it.

- How come you can wear a Hot Air Ballooning patch on your A-Jacket, but not Air Assault, Airborne, or recondo? Priorities, folks, priorities.

- Cadets say sir/ma'am so much that it drives me nuts (I'm as guilty as anyone). But some people can't get enough of it. Picture this...my roommate answers the phone, "Is so-and-so there?" asks a captain. "No, I'm sorry he's not in right now," my roommate replies. "Don't you mean Ma'am he's not in right now?" snaps the captain. Yeah right. If someone is so worried about crap like that they need a vacation.

- And UPT, you know I've got to end with this. The whole thing is screwed. First it was: "All of you who want to go to UPT and can pass the medical physical will go." Then it was: "You can all go to UPT, but some of you will get banked." Lately it's been: "Only some of you will go to UPT right away (so you get the opportunity to bank a tanker sooner), the rest of you will be banked to go to UPT, yeah, yeah, and we promise to send you later!" Anybody really believe this? Not to mention I can still smell the B.S. from everybody's "Statement of Desire to Attend UPT" (example):

I have wanted to fly since before I was born because I used to hear the sound of freedom, jet noise, when I was still in my mother's womb while she waited for my fighter pilot father at the flight line cafeteria.

Shoooweee, some of y'all out there in Dodo land may not have learned much at this fine institution but you sure have learned how to spout the bull dung when the time comes. Let's hope somebody important believes you. That's all I got for now 'cause I'm going to use what I call my TOPOFF privilege and go grab a dollar drink at Meadow Muffins (it being Tuesday night and all). Questions or complaints, come see me, I'm in raging Bull Six where morale is high and half the squadron is restricted...

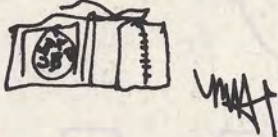

CLC Trevor Rush

(Thanks for nothing to Lefty Pakulski, Lee Smith, Darren Easton, and Jason White. They didn't give me any help. Not.)

Wait a minute. Have I actually spent hundreds of hours this year rubbing oil and wax into a pair of shoes? Have I wasted countless evenings starching shirts? Have I really wasted my creative mind memorizing how many gallons of gas were pumped into the "Question Mark"?

MIKE SOMERS' RULES FOR .... SKIING IN THE ROCKIES

The Skier's Responsibility Code should be kept in mind once you have safely arrived at your favorite ski resort. This includes:

- * Ski ~~under control~~ and in such a manner that you can ~~stop or avoid other skiers.~~ <sup>WITH RECKLESS ABANDON</sup> ~~stop or avoid other skiers.~~ <sup>KNOCK OVER TREES IN YOUR PATH.</sup>
- * When overtaking another skier, ~~give the courtesy of a verbal heads up, "Skier on your left, etc."~~ <sup>HIT THEM WITH YOUR POLES.</sup>
- * Avoid stopping, ~~where you obstruct a trail or are not visible from above.~~ <sup>ever.</sup>
- * Yield to ~~others when entering a trail or starting downhill.~~ <sup>no one.</sup>
- * Wear ~~retention straps or have brakes or other devices on your skis to prevent runaway skis which could result in injury to others.~~ <sup>extra long skis that propel you like a rocket.</sup>
- * Keep off ~~closed trails/posted areas and observe all posted signs.~~ <sup>GREEN RUNS. OBSERVE NO SIGNS.</sup>
- * Ski ~~at your ability level under control,~~ <sup>PAST ALL OTHER SKIERS</sup> relax and have fun. <sup>AT 60 MPH</sup> The wind chill can get as low as -40 F, so be prepared for extreme adverse weather changes, take breaks to warm up, and layer clothing to add or eliminate according to the weather.

MULTIPLE CHOICE:

1. SUPPOSE YOU WERE THE SUPERINTENDANT OF THE USAFA AND WANTED TO FIND OUT HOW MUCH CADETS WERE SLACKING OFF. WHAT TYPE OF SAMPLING WOULD YOU USE AND HOW?

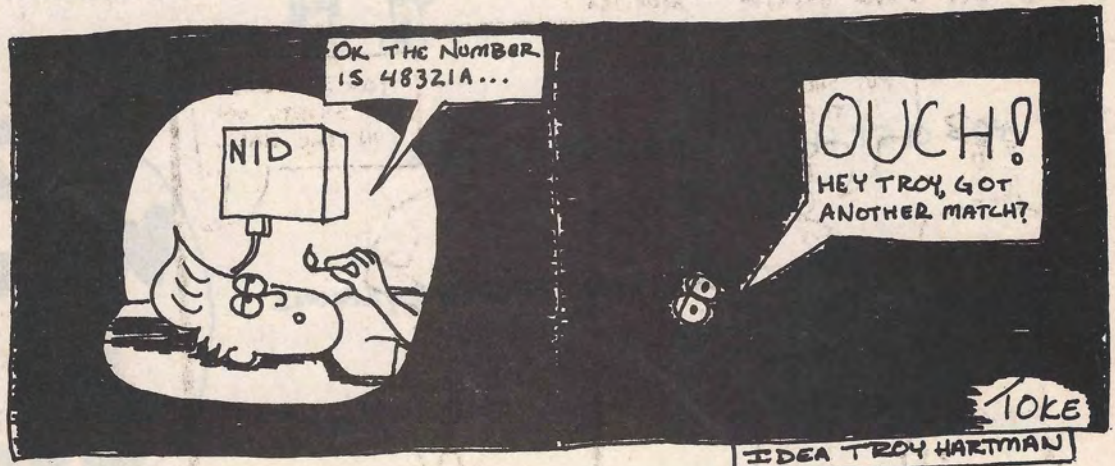

A. I WOULD TAKE A SMALL SAMPLE FROM RANDOM CADETS, SEEING HOW THIS IS MUCH MORE EFFICIENT AND LESS TIME CONSUMING. CADETS ARE VERY BUSY AND NEED THEIR TIME.

B. SAMPLING? WHAT SAMPLING? HECK, I'D SURVEY THEM ALL!!! WITH 20 DIGITEKS! WHO CARES IF THEY ARE BUSY? THEY GOT THE WEEKEND RIGHT? IF THOSE SLACKERS DON'T LIKE IT, THEY CAN FALL IN! WHY, WHEN I WAS HERE....

DODO TAILS

Like most Cadidiots, I chose the newspaper I subscribe to on a very critical basis: who's got the best cartoons? I went with the RMN for sheer volume. But lately, I've noticed a terrifying trend: Cartoons are becoming Wimpy. Yes, there, I've said it. And you know the ones I mean. This "Rose is Rose" which tries to reassure kids that it's ok to be total wussy. Or "Pot Shots" by Ashleigh Brilliant. The last thing I need with my Hostess Powdered-Sugar Mini Donuts in the morning is this decaying Hippy in Santa Barbara trying to appeal to my poetic nature. And Ziggy has completely swallowed the Eco-Freak propaganda, hook, line, and sinker.

I don't want to see "Ziggy's Earth Tips" when I'm on the can- I want Sgt.Snorkel beating the snot out of Beetle Bailey, or Andy Capp staggering in drunk at two in the morning, lying his ~~ass~~ off to his old lady, or the Wizard of Id being ordered to change dirt into gold by the King. That's Entertainment! Where's Prince Valiant killing heathens? That strip was so real, it showed him wiping the blood off his sword when he was done running someone through. <sigh> They don't write 'em like that, anymore.

The trend is noticable in children's toys, also. Remember when you could actually have G.I.Joe go on a date with Barbie? You know, the little boys would go over to the little girls' house, not because we liked them, but we liked liked their Barbie. And we didn't even know why, yet. But anyway, you could have Joe pick her up in his Infiltration Zodiac, or his Attack Chopper, and they could go to dinner at the Betty Crocker Play Oven (rock-hard, 3mm brownies) or get a haircut at the Play-Doh Barbershop.

Nowadays, Joe is about one-eighth Barbie's height, and he shaved his beard. And in the T.V. show, he can expend thousands of rounds of ammo, and not hit a single bad guy, a la the A-Team. No wonder Barbie won't play with him anymore; she can't even take this wimp seriously. Besides, she's got her own flight suit and Armed Service commission now, and Congress says she can fly the damn Attack Chopper herself. What does she need that over-the-hill-steroid-and-testosterone-laden freak for, anyhow? Huh! He probably still hates those nice Commu-uh Socialists in Russia and wouldn't send them any food!

Kids don't have cool toys anymore. It all went downhill after they stopped making the Battlestar Gallactica Centurion Fighters w the missile actually shot out of the nose. Just because three doz preschoolers choked to death or poked their eye out, or both, the missile soon just "popped" into view, and all you could do was p that it flew across the room at your little sister. What a sense waste!

But our best toys were based on the good T.V. shows and mov the Bionic Man where you could actually open up his arm and che cavity, the Death Star Trash Compactor that would really crush you wanted Han to get Leia instead, or the Space 1999 Eagle C you could blow the air lock on and have Martin Landau sucked vacuum, and the Star Trek Transporter Room that you could j into and play "Vulcan, Go Home!".

Those days are gone, faded into the ethreal mist of Pas Lore speaks of sunny afternoons backgrounded by a scratchy v "Puff the Magic Dragon" or "Peter and The Wolf" on a Fisher Kiddie Player, with the smells of Arthur Treacher's Fish & wafting delicately into the backyard, where you sat in your Machine and whipped the family golden retriever until he pu around the block.

Ah, you gotta miss it...
